Upto 1894 (see Mysore Gazette of May 24, 1894, Part II p 597) similar notifications used to be published in Part II In 1895 however Government ordered that as the Notification was signed by the Education Secretary it should appear in Part I

It was therefore published for the first time in Part I in the Empire Gazette of May 23, 1895, page 307 The designation of Education Secretary having subsequently been altered to that of Inspector General, the notification should have appeared in conformity with the usual practice in Part II as a departmental notification I submit therefore that the fact of the notification appearing in Part I of the Empire Gazette of the 18th June 1896 may not be taken as a precedent, and that in future I may be permitted to publish it in Part II

3. The year under review has been one of steady progress in all branches of education, and the number of pupils under instruction has increased by 2,331 or 8 per cent. The increase has been most marked in the Anglo-Vernacular schools, which have risen from 38 to 42, and in the Girls' schools, which have risen from 11 to 14. The number of pupils in the Anglo-Vernacular schools has increased by 312, and in the Girls' schools by 142.

The number of pupils in the Anglo-Vernacular schools has increased by 312, and in the Girls' schools by 142.

No P. I order found was directed in 1895 on the back of one of the memo- relating to the scholarships to publish the Notification in Part I But as the papers are filed in the Secretariat he is unable to say whether this impression is correct

2 It does not seem necessary to the undersigned to refer to the old files of the official gazette to settle the point raised There can be no doubt that the scholarships are intended for the encouragement of technical education, and therefore, in conformity with the practice all over India, the notification relating to them should be treated as a departmental one and published in Part II of the Gazette, especially after the designation of Education Secretary was altered to Inspector Genera
